THE LAW SOCIETY OF NORTHERN IRELAND

YEARS

IRLI is a joint initiative of the Law Society of Ireland, the Bar of Ireland, the Law Society of Northern Ireland (LSNI) and the Bar of Northern Ireland, dedicated to promoting the rule of law in developing countries by harnessing the skills of Irish and Northern Irish lawyers, working in many diverse fields including;

- Acting on behalf of unrepresented accused in Malawi;
- Capacity training of the judiciary, prosecution and police in proceeds of crime cases.
- Investigating and prosecuting child sex abuse cases in Tanzania;
- Commercial law training in South Africa for lawyers from historically disadvantaged backgrounds;
- Assisting human rights defenders in Southeast Asia;
- Assisting with the resettlement in Ireland of under threat female Afghan judges.
- Advocating on the death penalty in Malawi;
- Applying Northern Ireland's experience on transitional justice in Somalia.

Recently, former Law Society President Norville Connolly has been appointed a 'Senior Liaison Officer' with IRLI.
