The Meeting Space
At Law Society House
A space to gather to think to discuss to mediate

In an era of constant activity and noise, having a suitable place to talk through any issue is invaluable. The Meeting Space at Law Society House is a state-of-the-art facility that provides room to think and act with clarity and care.

Offering both formal and informal areas, with flexibility in size and layout, the Meeting Space delivers the privacy and convenience that effective engagement demands.

If you are seeking space for mediation, need a venue for business gatherings, or a place where you can bring clients, the Meeting Space is a calm, quiet and friendly place to talk.

Located in the heart of Belfast’s Legal Quarter, with spacious plenary and meeting rooms, break out areas and coffee docks, it is the perfect city centre base for solicitors and also an excellent choice for seminars, presentations, and gatherings for any business sector.

Close to the courts, restaurants and shopping areas, with ample nearby parking and easy access to motorways and rail links, you will be hosted by a professional team dedicated to ensuring your event is a success.

We all know that face to face communication is hard to beat. However, virtual and hybrid meetings have become a way of life and therefore every room is equipped with the highest specification of audio-visual facilities, high-speed connectivity and wide-screen video conferencing.

The Meeting Space is a contemporary venue designed with communication at its heart and offering every user an exceptional experience.
