Given the importance of this conference it is recommended that those wishing to attend should book early to secure their place(s).

Organised by The Law Society of Northern Ireland Immigration Practitioners’ Group, this unique conference provides an important platform to discuss overarching and specific immigration issues for applicants within the immigration system in the United Kingdom. It will bring together senior members of the judiciary, leading academics, prominent activists, community organisations and practitioners.

Through the range of high profile speakers including The Honourable Mr Justice McCloskey and Professor Colin Harvey from Queen’s University, the conference will examine recent developments in the legal and policy frameworks, with regards to the rights afforded to, and restrictions imposed upon, people wishing to enter and live in the UK.

Areas the conference will cover –
Access to Justice; Syrian Voluntary Resettlement Programme; Protecting the Rights of asylum seekers, migrants and refugees; the future of Human Rights within refugee Law; Strategic Litigation to further rights of refugees. It will also examine the implications of government policies for asylum seekers.

A ‘Small Worlds’ workshop presentation from Belfast Friendship Group will provide an insight into the real lives of refugees and migrants from around the world.

Lunch prepared and provided by chefs from the ‘Global Kitchen’ catering training project whose graduates include a number of Refugees and Asylum Seekers

Proceeds are going to Flourish NI.
